

Michael P. Burke grew up in a large family in London, Ontario. Interested in art at an early age, he was often caught doodling on bills found around the house. He has taught oil painting to more than 200 adults and children. Michael continues to illustrate and write and looks forward to a long career in children's books.